I am entering my seventh year as an educator for South-Western City Schools, first at Galloway Ridge Intermediate School and now Norton Middle School. I earned my undergraduate degree in middle childhood education from Urbana University and subsequently earned a master's degree in gifted and talented education from Ashland University.

In my time as an educator in the South-Western City School district, I have grown to care and advocate for many families that reside in the Westland area. The students with whom I have worked during this time have made me extremely impassioned to do my part to ensure our community is an exemplary setting for each of them to prepare for adulthood and, ideally, return to raise families of their own.

Additionally, I grew to love this part of Columbus so much that I purchased my first home here. As a 3 year local resident of Chesapeake Farms (just north of the Conrail Railroad), I utilize many of the resources, businesses, and infrastructure of the Westland Area on a day-to-day basis. I am a firm believer in public service and would love to contribute my energy to the place that I call home.
