Short Bio: Jaime was born in a wing of Columbus hospital (Grant) that was later blown up. While attending the Wellington School for high school, he earned the rank of Eagle Scout. His Eagle project, “Saving the Trees,” focused in planting 1500 American chestnut and 200 American elm saplings on reclaimed, abandoned mining land in the Wayne National Forest as part of the U.S. Forest Service research project involving a new blight-resistant strain of chestnuts. He attended Georgia Southern University, becoming a brother of Phi Iota Alpha Fraternity Inc. while earning a Bachelor of Science degree in Justice Studies. He returned to Columbus after graduation and works as a Diversion Officer in the Franklin County Prosecutor’s Office. Jaime is a member of the West Scioto Area Task Force.
