Columbus Public Health is the coordinating agency for Columbus Metropolitan Medical Response System (CMMRS). The Pharmaceutical Sub-committee of the CMMRS represents the official group of subject-matter experts for matters involving pharmaceuticals within the first 48 hours of an emergency response.

Over the past year the Sub-committee has recognized the need for the replacement of the Mark-1 anti-nerve agent kits currently kept in all Columbus-area EMS units and hospital-based MMRS pharmaceutical caches as they will be expiring at the end of February 2010. Over the last year, the Sub-committee has determined:

1) That the pharmaceutical best suited to fill the need is the DuoDote auto-injector. This pharmaceutical is the replacement for the Mark-1 which has been phased out and is no longer in production.

Following this determination, the sub-committee conducted research for providers of DuoDote auto-injectors and found that Meridian Medical Technologies is the sole source of this product in the United States.

3. Describe efforts to determine/verify that the company is the sole source:
