

Kim Way,

PLA, ASLA

Principal / Lead Planner / Urban
Designer/Landscape Architect

Kim Way has served as Principal of NBBJ's planning and urban design practice since joining the firm in 2001. Over the last 22 years he has led planning and design projects, both domestically and internationally, for public agencies, science and education institutions, healthcare organizations, corporations and commercial enterprises. Key Columbus area projects include; the Grandview Heights Spaces and Places Plan; Southwest Bexley Neighborhood Plan; West Bridge Street Corridor Framework Plan; the Columbus State Community College Campus Plan; Franklin University Campus Plan, Capital University Campus Master Plan, the Mount Carmel West/Franklinton Neighborhood Action Plan; the Upper Arlington Mixed-Use Development Study; and the Westerville South State Street Corridor Study.

Kim's expertise includes master planning and urban design for city governments, public agencies, civic organizations, commercial developers, and corporate enterprises.

Kim brings value to his clients and their projects through strategic planning, development strategies, site selection studies, master planning, urban design, landscape and environmental enhancement and sustainable implementation. With over 42 years of global experience, Kim engages in all aspects of the design and development process.

Prior to joining NBBJ, Kim served as Principal with Ellerbe Becket in Minneapolis, Minnesota for four years, where he led planning and design projects including; the West Side Flats Planning Study, in Saint Paul, MN; the Roseville City Center Study in Roseville, MN; and the Grand Center Urban Design Study in Grand Rapids, MI. For 16 years, prior to that, he was a planning and urban design Principal with LDR International in Columbia, MD where he led master plans for new residential and mixed-use communities, downtown districts, urban neighborhoods, waterfront development areas and civic open space environments. For five years he served as Managing Director of LDR's London, England office.
