RESUME

Stephen W. Volkmann, ASLA is the University Landscape Architect in the Department Facilities Operations and Development at The Ohio State University. Mr. Volkmann is responsible for coordinating many of the activities connected with site design for both new construction and renovation projects. He also provides design services for smaller renovation projects throughout the campus. Additionally, he works closely with Planning and Real Estate in establishing and maintaining the Campus Design Standards.

Mr. Volkmann received a Bachelor of Science in Landscape Architecture from The Ohio State University in 1979. He has been active in private practice from 1978 to 2002, first at Schruggs and Hammond Landscape Architects and then at Richard Trott and Partners Architects where he worked on a wide variety of project types. Most recently he has been employed at Kinzelman Kline where, as a founding principal, he focused on park planning and urban planning and design.
