Please include a brief bio on this page below:

Rebecca CE Brown moved to Franklinton with her husband, Teddy, in 2012 after being engaged with the neighborhood during her childhood. She and Teddy now have four children and are actively involved in Franklinton life through their faith community, home garden, and work. They are the Co-Executive Directors of Franklinton Farms, a nonprofit urban farm growing food, creating beauty, and building community. Prior to leading the Farms, Rebecca's professional work ranged from nonprofit leadership, fundraising, and evaluation to local and national cross-faith peacemaking initiatives. Her educational and practitioner background is in Conflict Transformation, with a focus on cross-cultural relationships and antiracism. She also conducts classes on constructive conflict engagement. Rebecca is grateful to represent her neighbors on the Franklinton Area Commission.
