To whom it may concern:

Mr. Rob VanEvra asked me to clarify several points relating to our equipment at the Jackson Pike facility and briefly explain the proposal for improvements to these wet scrubbers.

In 1998, EnviroCare supplied two complete wet scrubbers for cleaning process gases from multiple hearth furnaces. Since that time, EnviroCare has improved the design in respect to energy consumption by using higher pressure water in lieu of compressed air for droplet generation within the scrubber. This design along with the earlier supplied equipment is patented.

EnviroCare International is the sole provider of this technology and equipment. The equipment for our scrubbers is manufactured in our shop located on our premises. Every product supply is custom manufactured for each customer. I believe, there are several companies in North America with "EnviroCare" in their name, however, these companies sell unrelated products.

I hope this clarifies any confusion pertaining to the scrubber proposal. Please feel free to contact me with any additional questions or comments.
