

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF
J. JEFFREY McNEALEY

Raised in Columbus, and having graduated from The Columbus Academy, Jeff attended Cornell University, graduating in 1966. Upon graduating from Ohio State University College of Law in 1969, Jeff joined Porter, Wright, Morris & Arthur, a nationally ranked Columbus-based law firm. Since then, his practice has focused on environmental matters, as well as general corporate and related real estate development issues. While serving on various corporate boards, one of which is an NYSE environmental consulting firm, he has actively served on the boards, and served as an officer, of various charities in the central Ohio area, including Columbus Cancer Clinic, Capital Square Ray of the Columbus Cancer Clinic, German Village Society, Cornell Club of Central Ohio, Columbus Oktoberfest Committee, Dresden Sister City, Inc., Columbus Historical Society, American Red Cross, Columbus Urban League, and Columbus Academy Alumni Board. He has been acknowledged as one of the outstanding environmental lawyers in the country since 1989 by "The Best Lawyers in America" and since 2001 by Chambers International for environmental and real estate development. Jeff has served as lead counsel in many nationally and regionally significant air, water, and Superfund cases. He has also represented many of our area employers in environmental and related issues. Jeff's focus in Columbus has been in real estate development, annexation and zoning matters for various local and national clients. He has also represented many of our area employers in environmental and related issues.

"I get great pleasure out of bringing my business experiences to the aid of various charities that I have worked with", mentioned McNealey. He served as Chair of Friends of Metro Parks in central Ohio supporting passage of Metro Parks decennial levy passed May, 2009.
