

Robin Davis is the senior director of media relations and spokesperson for Mayor Andrew J. Ginther. She handles all media requests, as well as pitching stories to local and national media outlets. She also coordinates with chief communications officers in other city departments on all media requests for the City of Columbus.

Prior to joining Mayor Ginther's staff, Robin was editorial director at Kenyon College in Gambier, OH. She also worked as the food editor and features writer at the Columbus Dispatch and hosted cooking segments and specials on WBNS-TV. Before coming to Columbus, Robin was a restaurant critic and food writer for the San Francisco Chronicle. She came to San Francisco by way of Los Angeles, where she worked as an assistant editor at Bon Appetit magazine.