

Christopher Hodges Bio

Chris Hodges has lived in Northwest Columbus for over twenty years. In addition to being a resident and parent, he is a passionate advocate of service in the community. Outside of his corporate career, he serves on the Board of Directors for Wild Goose Creative and has devoted countless hours over the years to fostering the development of the city's creative spirit through volunteering in a variety of capacities with numerous arts and culture organizations including working on GCAC's Columbus Arts Fest, consulting on WOSU's Broad & High music series, establishing FrontStage Fest in partnership with WWCD, and serving on the music committees for Independents' Day, 934 Fest, and Blockfort Studios' Alley Islands events.