This legislation authorizes the Director of the Department of Public Utilities to enter into a collaborative contract with The Water Research Foundation for the Tailored Collaboration Program for the ACID+ Digestion Proposal, for the Division of Sewerage and Drainage. This project will develop an improved understanding of Southerly Wastewater Treatment Plant's (SWWTP) conventional acid-gas digestion that will be leveraged to provide more optimized digestion and potential process upgrades. Benefits are anticipated to include reduced foaming, reduction of hydrogen sulfide in the biogas, and enhanced process stability. This process is expected to additionally provide controlled production of struvite at lower chemical demand while possibly increasing existing digester capacity. It is a collaborative effort in which Columbus provides a portion of the funding and is the sponsoring utility, with several other entities contributing funding and in-kind donations as well, including Brown and Caldwell, Cincinnati MSD, NYC DEP, Gwinnett County, and The Water Research Foundation. The results of this research have the potential to benefit the SWWTP and the other study participants, as well as others in the industry utilizing similar technologies.
