Background: Columbus Recreation and Parks Department has a need to alter and amend various sections within Columbus City Codes Chapter 921, regarding watercraft on reservoirs. These changes are a result of recent code review and current permitting processes for activities on waters of the City. The changes will ensure that paddle craft, without a safety vessel, must operate within 100' of shore as they do today. Paddle craft include, but are not limited to: rowing shells, kayaks, canoes, and paddleboards.

Rowing organizations do have a need to operate a safety vessel that exceeds 22' maximum length as noted within existing code. These vessels may only be used when actively supporting a legal recreational vessel. The boats are designed to be low wake and the size is required to be able to rescue 8 members of a rowing shell if it were to capsize and need to be rescued. These safety vessels are primarily 27' in length. For this reason, an exemption in the code was created to allow safety vessels to exceed the 22' maximum up to 28' in size with permission from the Director. Rowing Shells accompanied by a safety vessel must operate as close to shore as practically possible but may extend beyond 100' when necessary to perform to a standard for their sport. An open zone, free from rowing shells and safety vessels, of at least 150' in the center of the reservoir must remain open for two way traffic at all times.

In addition, these changes will require substantial amendment to code definitions applicable throughout 921 in order to conform to definitions in the Ohio Revised Code.

Emergency Justification: N/A

Benefits to the Public: This amendment to code regarding watercraft on reservoirs will to help ensure consistency in boating and the safety of users.

Community Input/Issues: Providing the safety and consistency for the experience of utilizing our parks and reservoirs.

Area(s) Affected: Citywide (99)

Master Plan Relation: This project will support the Recreation and Parks Master Plan by promoting the safety of parks and reservoirs.

Fiscal Impact: No fiscal action is required at this time.
