The goal of the Columbus Small Business Agenda, endorsed by Columbus City Council, was to strategically rely on the existing infrastructure and expertise of the qualified partners within the City's small business ecosystem to more broadly and positively impact the small business environment of the City. This is the first major initiative since the adoption of the Columbus Small Business Agenda that will allow Development the ability to utilize this network to have the broadest and most expedient reach in deploying financial assistance to vulnerable small businesses around the City adversely impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Economic Community Development Institute (ECDI) will deploy grant and loan dollars, and provide technical assistance, to Columbus small business enterprises selected by a review committee consisting of members of the Columbus Small Business Agenda-Working Committee #3.

Emergency action is requested to ensure that ECDI can receive the dollars available to immediately deploy loans to support small businesses.
